Practicing the principles of the Heart Magnet

Whatever happens in a relationship (or doesn't) is of course partly down to our own efforts and desires, but only to a minimal extent – it is largely a product of the hidden forces at work within us all. We can learn to recognise and change these forces – the transformation can be set in motion by asking just one question, but it has to be the right one. The questions that Ruediger Schache has been asked during the course of his work are like keys that can help us to integrate the principles of the heart magnet into our everyday lives. The clarity of his answers makes it easier for us to find understanding, acceptance and true love.
